

How to write Prompts

Better prompts -----> Better visuals

0) What you're building

A strong prompt is basically a mini-brief. The core pieces are:

1. Purpose (what you're trying to achieve)
2. Role (who the AI should act as)
3. Structure / Format (how the output should be organized)
4. Style / Tone (how it should sound/look)
5. Details / Constraints (rules, limits, must-haves)
6. Example + Action (a weak prompt → upgraded prompt)

Step 1) Define the Purpose (the goal)

Start by stating why you're generating this and what it's for.

What to write

- What you want: script / caption / product description / business idea / Midjourney prompt / video scene

- Where it will be used: TikTok / YouTube / website / email / ad / storyboard
- How long or detailed it should be (optional here, but helpful)

Example

- Weak: “Write something about coffee.”
 - Strong: “Write a 15-second TikTok hook about why cold brew is better than hot coffee.”

Step 2) Assign a Role (who the AI is)

You’re not talking to a blank slate—give the AI a character or expert perspective.

Role ideas

- “Act as a Harvard business professor.”
- “Pretend you’re a sassy 80s aerobics instructor.”
- For video creation: “Act as a world-class film director.”

Why it matters

Role changes the tone, depth, and decision-making style of the output.

Step 3) Specify Structure and Format (how you want it delivered)

Tell the AI exactly how to format the output so you can use it immediately.

Common formats

- Bullet list
- Steps/checklist
- Dialogue script
- Table

- JSON (if you're feeding another tool)
- "Midjourney-style prompt format"

Example format instructions

- "Give me five bullet points, each under 20 words."
 - "Write this as a dialogue between two coworkers in an office."

Step 4) Choose Style and Tone (how it should feel)

Style is the "voice" and vibe.

Tone examples you can copy

- "Make it sound like a motivational coach."
 - "Use the tone of a luxury fashion brand."
 - "Make it poetic and emotional."

Step 5) Add Details and Constraints (rules that improve results)

This is where most people miss out. Constraints often make outputs better, not worse.

Constraint ideas

- Length: "Limit to 100 words."
 - Language: "Don't use technical jargon."
 - Content rules: "Include one metaphor and one pop culture reference."
 - Visual direction (for film/image prompts): "Make it resemble [FILM REFERENCE]" / "Shot on IMAX" / "Realistic lighting"

Step 6) Put it all together (Weak prompt → Upgraded prompt)

Weak prompt

"Write something about productivity."

Upgraded prompt (template)

"Act as a [ROLE]. Create a [OUTPUT TYPE] about [TOPIC] for [PLATFORM] in [LENGTH]. Use a [TONE] tone. Format it as [FORMAT]. Constraints: [CONSTRAINT 1], [CONSTRAINT 2], [CONSTRAINT 3]."

Guess which one is the weak prompt!

EXAMPLES

"Write something about productivity"

"Act as a former navy seal turned life coach, write a motivation instagram caption about morning routines, in under 100 words, in a bold tone"
